

Yale University

Workshop in Urban Ethnography

Spring 2013

Race, Races, and Racism: From Urban to Urbane

Andrew Hacker

Professor Emeritus of Political Science
Queens College

Andrew Hacker is Professor Emeritus of Political Science at Queens College. He previously served as Professor of Government at Cornell University. His books include Two Nations: Black and White, Separate, Hostile, Unequal (1992), Money: Who Has How Much and Why (1997), Mismatch: The Growing Gulf Between Women and Men (2003), and Higher Education? How Colleges are Wasting Our Money and Failing Our Kids—And What We Can Do About It (with Claudia Dreifus, 2010). His work has appeared in numerous scholarly and popular publications, including The Wall Street Journal, the American Political Science Review, and The Yale Law Journal. He earned a B.A. from Amherst College, an M.A. from Oxford College, and a Ph.D. from Princeton University.

Race, Races, and Racism: From Urban to Urbane

What do we actually mean by race, races, and racism? Since we have no official definitions, here is a chance to see how each of us uses them. Hint: urban and urbane will figure in this interchange.

Lunch Served * * * All Welcome

Monday, April 1, 11:30a-1:20p

210 Prospect Street, Room 203, New Haven

For more information: erica.dorpalen@yale.edu

Yale